

Creating Style Collections

CREATING STYLE COLLECTIONS. IMAGINATIVE AND INDIVIDUAL.

How do you translate work culture and all that defines it into an experience of space? Which room systems, colours and furniture express it best? K+N style collections can help.

An attractive work environment differentiates companies during the recruitment process and plays a vital role in employer branding. The focus when designing work environments is therefore falling increasingly on aesthetics. We can help: With K+N style collections, we offer you a guiding hand and support at every stage of our individually tailored design process. The four style collections are underpinned by an intensive analysis of current and upcoming developments in architecture, lifestyle and colour psychology — and the insights are fed into aesthetically attractive work environments that harmonise with the characteristic features of your work culture.

” It's all about translating the work culture into an experience of space. “
